2. Characteristic spirit and general objectives of the school

Powerscourt National School is a co-educational primary school with a Church of Ireland ethos under the patronage of the Archbishop of Dublin and Glendalough, Michael Jackson.

'Church of Ireland/Anglican' ethos in the context of a Church of Ireland primary school means the ethos and characteristic spirit of the Anglican Christian tradition. This seeks to nurture and encourage the formation of the intellectual, academic, sporting, social and religious abilities of each child within the framework of the community of faith. A Church of Ireland ethos encourages intellectual diversity of thought and encourages the individual to seek to understand themselves, the world around them and the connection between the world and God. This understanding of school ethos promotes pluralism in thought and living, in the context of a Christian school community. Drawing on its Anglican tradition, the Church of Ireland School encourages home/family involvement, highlighting the importance of the family/home in the social and emotional development of the child, and more broadly, the community of the school and church.

In accordance with S.15 (2) (b) of the Education Act, 1998 the Board of Management of Powerscourt National School shall uphold, and be accountable to the patron for so upholding, the characteristic spirit of the school as determined by the cultural, educational, moral, religious, social, linguistic and spiritual values which inform and are characteristic of the objectives and conduct of the school.

Powerscourt National School is a co-educational primary school, under Church of Ireland management, with the Archbishop of Dublin as Patron. As such, the school values and respects all children, regardless of social background, religious denomination, gender, educational achievement or physical characteristics. It's adult population, be they staff, parents or visitors, are met with similar inclusivity and equality, meeting the nine grounds as listed in the Equal Status Act of 2000, namely gender, marital status, family status, sexual orientation, religion, age, disability, race, being a member of the Traveller Community.

It is a community encompassing pupils, parents, staff and Board of Management where Christian values, such as honesty, justice, respect, care and responsibilities are nurtured. Participation in all aspects of school life is encouraged, including attendance at Powerscourt Parish Church on special occasions.

The school's Board of Management adheres to the Department of Education and Skills Guidelines and the Department's revised curriculum is followed. The work of the school is conducted in an atmosphere of understanding and respect for religious differences and family circumstances.

Just as the Primary School Curriculum celebrates the uniqueness of the child, so too does Powerscourt National School. Our school ethos and mission statement forms the back bone of any decision made in the school and directs us in our planning and in the day-to-day running of the school.

We aim to enable each child to develop his/her full potential using a child-centred, holistic approach. The emerging youth will be encouraged to become confident, responsible, tolerant and life-long self-motivated learners.
